

LG Unveils Teaser for New Smartphone

April 10, 2020 12:16

LG has unveiled a rendering of its new smartphone set for release next month which features multiple cameras and rounded edges to give a streamlined look.

The back has triple cameras placed in descending order of size to resemble a falling water drop.

LG said the rounded edges are intended to improve the grip.

"The rectangular shape of existing smartphones does not offer a proper grip, but our new device increases the contact area with the hand," a staffer said.
